III. «Смысловая стадия»

Стратегия «Зигзаг»

На столе учителя находится четыре текста, распечатанных на разноцветных листах бумаги (каждый из 4-х текстов распечатан на листах определенного цвета). Учитель предлагает учащимся взять любой текст и объединиться в группы так, чтобы у одноклассников были все тексты (разного цвета). Так учащиеся объединяются в кооперативные группы.

Затем учащиеся снова объединяются в группы (экспертные) по следующему принципу: у всех в группе должен быть один и тот же текст (см. Приложение).

Teacher: I have brought some texts today about shopping. They are of different colours. I'd like you to come to my table and take one of them.

Now we shall do some group work. Split up into groups of four. There should be all colours in each group. Take your new places, please and remember your group.

Split up into groups again. There should be one colour in each group. Take your new places, please. Now listen to what you have to do. Read the text very carefully and prepare to present the text in the different way. You can use a cluster or a table.

Now you should return to your first group and retell your text using your cluster or the table.

The next task is to make a big cluster or a big table using the information from all texts. You should try to show the connection with the main ideas of the texts.

Учащиеся читают текст в экспертных группах и составляют схему или кластер, после чего возвращаются в свои кооперативные группы и докладывают одногруппникам изученный материал по составленной схеме/таблице/кластеру. После этого они получают задание составить на листах формата А3 общий кластер, отражающий весь изученный на уроке материал.

IV. Стадия «Рефлексия».

Прием «Кластер»

1. Составление совместно с учителем общего кластера на доске.

2. Подготовка к написанию эссе на тему "Some people believe that shopping is a great pleasure while others are sure it is a big problem."

Teacher: Your time is up. Let's work together. What are we going to talk about?

Pupils: We are going to talk about shopping.

Teacher: When we begin to talk about shopping the first thing is buying. What is buying connected with?

Pupils: Buying is connected with choosing, ordering and picking up.

Teacher: The second is - ways of shopping. What ways of shopping have you read about?

Pupils: We have read about shopping by phone, online and in modern shopping centres.

Teacher: What do people think about shopping?

Pupils: For some people, shopping is a pleasant experience. Some people don't enjoy shopping.

Teacher: Where can we do shopping? Pupils: We can do shopping in modern shopping centres.

Teacher: Are shopping centres only for shops or something else? What can we find there?

Pupils: There is a children's play area, a food area, cinemas and cash machines.

Teacher: Shopping centres have different shops, don't they? What kinds of shops does Fletcher's have?

Pupils: It has a flower shop, a sports shop, a key booth, a photographer's and a charity shop.

Teacher: So, we all have to shop and most of us like shopping. But some people think it is a problem. Why do they think so?

Pupils: Because they get addicted to shopping.

Teacher: Why do they get addicted?

Pupils: They have got childhood problems, feel unimportant.

Teacher: What can they do?

Pupils: They can find a new hobby, learn a new skill, help other people, rebuild their lives.

Teacher: We have been very active today and have done lots of work. Can we use this cluster? Can it help us to write an essay? Try to write an essay on this statement: "Some people believe that shopping is a great pleasure while others are sure it is a big problem."

Домашнее задание.

Shop till you drop

Whether it's buying something to cook for dinner, choosing some new clothes or picking up a gift for a friend's birthday, we all have to shop. Nowadays most people are so busy that they don't want to spend a lot of time shopping. Fortunately, there is a variety of shopping options, something to meet everyone's needs.

For some people, shopping is a pleasant experience, a chance to meet a friend and spend the day from shop to shop in one of the new, modern shopping centres. They enjoy looking for bargains, especially in shops that sell brand names. They don't mind trying on lots of different clothes - it all adds to the enjoyment of the day. After a hard day's shopping, they'll often see a film at one of the cinemas at the shopping centre, or have dinner at one of the many restaurants there.

Other people prefer shopping quickly and easily from their own home by shopping online. All they have to do is search the Internet for the item they want to buy, read about it and place an order for it, using a credit card. It's fast, easy and convenient. Of course, you have to wait for the item to be delivered to your home, which can take from two days to two weeks and, if you don't like the item when you get it, you'll have to pack it up and return it to the company. There's no time wasted travelling to and from a shopping centre, no searching for the item you want, and no trying on.

Many shops also accept orders placed by phone. You can call your local supermarket, for example, and give them a list of the items you want to buy. One of their staff will gather all the items you want, charge them to your credit card, and deliver them to your home. Of course, you'll still have to put everything away once it's delivered, and you may not be happy with the quality of fresh fruit and vegetables they've selected for you, but it does save you a lot of time.

So there are many ways a busy modern person can shop. No matter which method you choose, it seems the end of the small family-owned shop cannot be far away. Personally, even though I don't enjoy shopping, I do like having a chat with my neighbourhood shopkeepers.

Addicted to Shopping

Almost all of us get some kind of pleasure from shopping. We might feel good about going out to buy something for someone we love, or we might want to reward ourselves after a week of hard work. For some people, though, shopping becomes a problem. They feel a strong need to buy and often spend large amounts of money on things they don't need, or even possibly that they already have. Finding the money to go shopping can even get them in trouble with the law. These people are addicted to shopping.

Some experts believe that events in your childhood can cause shopping addiction. As children it's very important to all of us to feel important to our parents and that we are free to express our emotions. When we don't have that, we often look for other ways to make ourselves feel better. Shopping addicts usually get a powerful feeling of comfort and satisfaction at the moment they hand the money over. In general, though, the enjoyment has disappeared by the time they get home from a trip. They might feel bad about wasting money and hide the things they've bought, or even destroy them.

Serious financial problems are often the result of shopping addiction. Very few of us can afford to spend money on things we don't need and it's not long before the credit card bills start to get out of control. Some addicts may even steal to make sure they can afford the next shopping trip.

It's not easy to get over shopping addiction. It seems that the best treatment involves finding the real reason behind the behavior, such as childhood memories or difficulties in your present life. Once you understand the cause, then you can deal with it differently. For example, if the shopping addiction comes from feeling unimportant, you need to find other ways of making yourself feel good, such as learning a new skill or helping other people in some way. Many shopping addicts manage to rebuild their lives, but it's not easy, and the shops are still just a short bus ride away.
